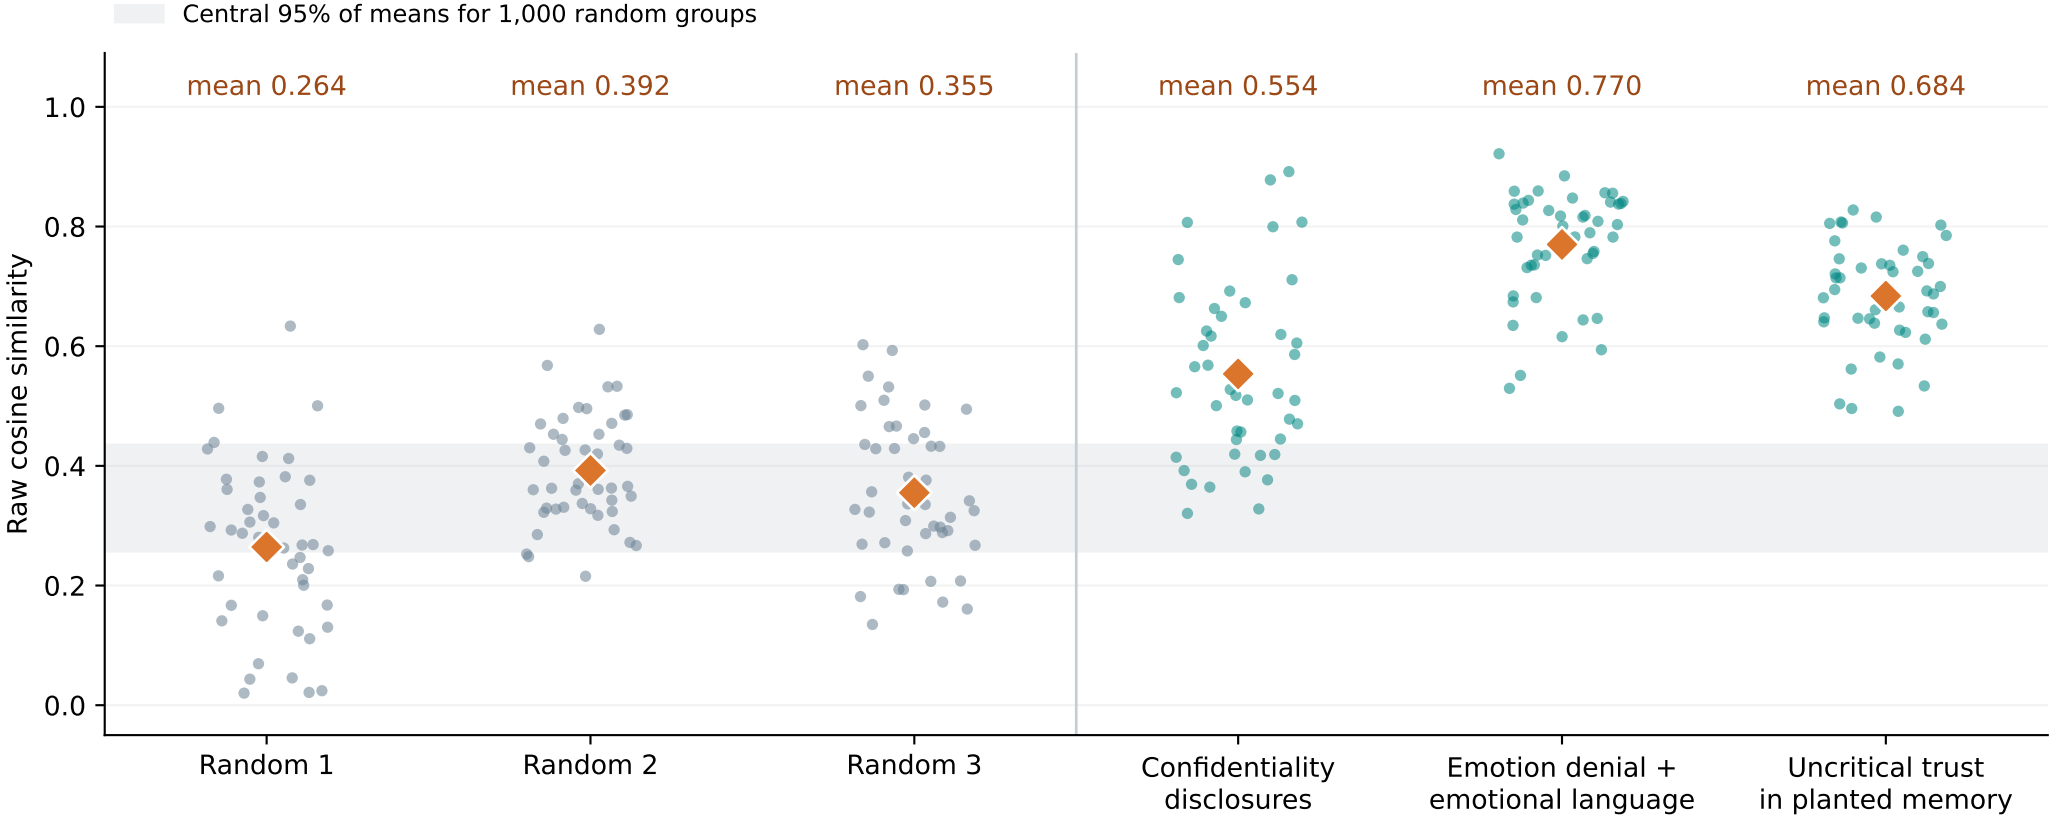
How similar are random vs manually matched behaviours?

Six groups of 10 PETRI summaries · MPNet · 45 distinct cosine comparisons per group

Groups chosen before scoring. Dots = pairs; diamonds = group means.



Curated groups share behaviours, vocabulary, and some audit scenarios; they are illustrative positive examples, not universal ideals.

Random-group overlaps were retained. The shaded range describes group means, whereas dots are individual pairs.